Buyers and Sellers Beware

Following the recent conviction of a man for theft of ROC items, any members who have items to dispose of should beware rogue dealers who will sell items at great profit on eBay and elsewhere.

Those wishing to purchase items, especially instruments, should first check their provenance to ensure they have not been stolen to avoid being involved with litigation in the future.

Rumours have been circulating that funds may have been provided for a Post restoration project – this is untrue, neither National Committee nor the Heritage Team has a mandate to provide such funding.

Should any members have ROC related items looking for a good home, the National Heritage Team will be delighted to receive items for the National archive.
